Proper Belt Sizing:

Put on your favorite belt and note which hole you usually use for a comfortable fit. Now, measure from that hole to the tip of your buckle (or wherever your buckle and belt meet at the hole). Round this to the nearest ¼ inch. This measurement will be used to create the third hole in your belt (the "waist" size). Now, measure from the hole you used to the fold in the belt that holds your buckle. This number is the "Fold to Hole" Length (or FH Length). Finally, measure the distance from the fold that holds your buckle to the tip of the hook or pin that fits into your belt hole. This number is the "Buckle" Length (or B Length). If you add the B Length and the FH Length together, you should have the same number you found when measuring the Waist Size of the belt. Please double check these numbers, as it will help us to center your text and ensure that your belt is a fantastic fit.
